Alicia Keys Launches HIV Campaign for U.S. Women

May 9, 2013

Alicia Keys has launched an HIV awareness campaign for women in the United States, CNN reports. The first phase of “Empowered” features a video of the Grammy Award-winning singer and songwriter with five HIV-positive U.S. women. The domestic focus is new for Keys, who until now has done most of her AIDS advocacy abroad, in particular as a cofounder of Keep a Child Alive, which has raised millions of dollars to care for people with HIV in Africa and India.
