’SexPositive’ App Gives Sex Ed to College Students

October 25, 2013

A new sex education app is available for free on iTunes, Portland Business Journal reports. The University of Oregon originally developed “SexPositive” for its students. The app gives advice to young adults on sexual activity and prevention of sexually transmitted infections. The interface has two wheels: An inner wheel represents the body parts of the user, and an outer wheel represents the body parts of sex partners. The app also focuses on the importance of communication before sex.

To read the article, click here.

© 2026 Smart + Strong All Rights Reserved.
http://beta.docker.realhealthmag.com/article/sex-positive-app-oregon-24676-5729